presentation of the album

Haustura is Ekhi Lambert's first solo album. Voice with guitar accompaniment is how he initially wrote his songs. These personal compositions provided the foundations for the singer from Garazi's new project.

In June 2019, he created a trio with Yoan Aroztegui and Miguel Etcheverry. The three friends then sought to sharpen the atmosphere of each song, to grasp in the best possible way its intentions, experimenting with different keyboard and percussion sounds. The warmth of the voice softens into the chime of a gong, into the sound of castanets, into the soft timbre of the guitar, and into the dreamlike sounds of the keyboard. Throughout their songs, the trio evokes a moving imaginary world, always in cadence with the lyrics, echoing their colours in a rich palette of sound. With this meticulous arrangement technique, Ekhi Lambert establishes his own poetic atmosphere. At the end of October 2019, the trio recorded the album Haustura in the Elkar recording studio in Donostia - San Sebastian. On stage, Ekhi Lambert offers a unique Basque singing style, combining traditional repertoire and compositions.

Ekhi Lambert

Ekhi Lambert is a singer-guitarist, songwriter, composer and performer originally from Irulegi. He grew up playing the guitar and today he performs in different formations, blending traditional music with music of our time, and putting forward his personal approach to musical interpretation and writing. He also composes arrangements for other artists, as well as small orchestras and dance groups. Having obtained his degree in musical studies (Diplôme d'Études Musicales, DEM) in Traditional music at the Conservatory Maurice Ravel of Bayonne, he signs Haustura in December 2019, his first solo album.

Yoan Aroztegui

Yoan Aroztegui is from Guiche: he is a percussionist, drummer and pianist. He is currently studying classical percussion at the Higher Institute of Arts of Toulouse to obtain the full national certificate (Diplôme d'État, DE). He started his musical course in the Municipal Conservatory of Dax, prior to taking his musical studies degree (Diplôme d'Études Musicales, DEM) in percussions at the Conservatory Maurice Ravel of Bayonne. His vast experience among bands, playing a variety of music styles (jazz, country music, ball music repertoire...) ensures the finesse of his interpretation and makes him a creative improviser.

Miguel Etcheverry

Miguel Etcheverry is a drummer and percussionist originally from Donibane Garazi. He started to play drums at the age of eight and thereafter joined the Conservatory Maurice Ravel of Bayonne where he obtained his musical studies degree (Diplôme d'Études Musicales, DEM) in percussion. His career history has provided him a rich experience both in the field of classical music, traditional music; and music of our time (drummer in a brass band, percussionist in the orchestra, as well as accompaniment of dancers). Always ready to listen, his musicality demonstrates his commitment to the research and the work of sound.
